

STANFORD UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER
STANFORD, CALIFORNIA 94305

DEPARTMENT OF BIOCHEMISTRY

PAUL BERG
Jack, Lulu and Sam Willson
Professor of Biochemistry

April 10, 1978

Dr. Tracy Sonneborn
Department of Biology
Indiana University
Bloomington, Ind. 47401

Dear Tracy,

I have your letter inquiring about my willingness to "arrange for the safe deposition" and "surveying and inventoring" materials of historical interest in genetics. When it arrived I was very busy teaching and could not give it the thought it warranted. Since then I read the list of documents historians would like to have and realized what an ambitious task that would be. Very frankly I just could not undertake anything along those lines now. As for making arrangements to leave all my files, memorabilia etc. I would gladly do so if I had been conscientious about saving things throughout the years. However I wasn't and whatever I could leave would only be a fragmentary record at best.

So, while I don't have any reason for withholding what records I have, I don't think I have very much that's useful (or interesting) and I'm not eager to begin to collect what I do have for "future historians".

Sincerely yours,

PB:a