

into the State of Illinois, and charging adulteration and misbranding in violation of the food and drugs act. The article was labeled in part: (Cases) "Northwest Canning Company, Salem, Oregon, USA Phez Pure Juice of the Loganberry;" (bottles) "To drink add two parts water. Phez pressed from luscious Oregon loganberries. Sugar added. * * * Net contents 32 Fluid Ozs."

It was alleged in the libel that the article was adulterated in that added water had been substituted in part for pure loganberry juice, which the said article purported to be.

Misbranding was alleged for the reason that the statements, (case) "Pure juice of the loganberry" and (bottle) "Luscious Oregon loganberry," were false and misleading, and deceived and misled the purchaser when applied to loganberry juice containing added water; and for the further reason that it was offered for sale and sold under the distinctive name of another article. Misbranding was alleged for the further reason that the article was food in package form and the quantity of the contents was not plainly and conspicuously marked on the outside of the package, since the statement of the contents was not in terms of the largest unit.

On December 8, 1931, Luman R. Wing & Co., Chicago, Ill., claimant, having admitted the allegations of the libel and having consented to the entry of a decree, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be released to the said claimant for relabeling under the supervision of this department, upon the payment of costs and the execution of a bond in the sum of $1,000, conditioned in part that it should not be sold or otherwise disposed of contrary to the provisions of the food and drugs act, or to the laws of any State, Territory, district, or insular possession.

19092. Adulteration of canned tomato catsup. U. S. v. 85 Cases of Tomato Catsup. Default decree of condemnation, forfeiture, and destruction. (F. & D. No. 27045. I. S. No. 21634. S. No. 5276.)

Samples of canned tomato catsup from the shipment herein described having been found to contain excessive mold, the Secretary of Agriculture reported the matter to the United States attorney for the Southern District of California.

On October 6, 1931, the United States attorney filed in the District Court of the United States for the district aforesaid a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 85 cases of canned tomato catsup, remaining in the original unbroken packages at Los Angeles, Calif., alleging that the article had been shipped by the Pacific Coast Cannery (Inc.), from Ogden, Utah, on or about October 22, 1930, and had been transported from the State of Utah into the State of California, and charging adulteration in violation of the food and drugs act. The article was labeled in part: (Cases and cans) "Red Mount Brand Standard Tomato Catsup Made from Trimmings of Sound Ripe Tomatoes Contents 6 Lbs. 10 Oz. packed and guaranteed by National Packing Corporation, Ogden, Utah, U. S. A."

Adulteration was alleged in the libel in that the product consisted in part of a decomposed vegetable substance.

On December 3, 1931, no claimant having appeared, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.

19093. Adulteration and misbranding of cocoa. U. S. v. 166 Barrels of Cocoa. Default decree of condemnation, forfeiture, and destruction. (F. & D. No. 27044. I. S. No. 30370. S. No. 5267.)

Samples of cocoa from the shipment herein described having been found to contain added shell material, the Secretary of Agriculture reported the matter to the United States attorney for the Eastern District of New York.

On October 7, 1931, the United States attorney filed in the District Court of the United States for the district aforesaid a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 166 barrels of cocoa, remaining in the original packages at Brooklyn, N. Y., alleging that the article had been shipped on or about May 7, 1931, by the Keystone Chocolate Co., from Harrisburg, Pa., and had been transported in interstate commerce from the State of Pennsylvania into the State of New York, and charging adulteration and misbranding in violation of the food and drugs act. A portion of the article was labeled: "Pure Cocoa."

Adulteration was alleged in the libel for the reason that shell material had been mixed and packed with and substituted in part for the said article.

Misbranding was alleged for the reason that the article was offered for sale under the distinctive name of another article. Misbranding was alleged with respect to a portion of the article for the further reason that the statement "Pure Cocoa" was false and misleading, and deceived and misled the purchaser when applied to cocoa containing added shell material.

On December 7, 1931, no claimant having appeared for the property, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.

19094. Adulteration of raspberry puree. U. S. v. 15 Barrels of Raspberry Puree. Default decree of condemnation, forfeiture, and destruction. (F. & D. No. 26973. I. S. Nos. 12972, 31308. S. No. 5080.)

Samples of raspberry puree from the shipment herein described having been found to contain excessive mold, the Secretary of Agriculture reported the matter to the United States attorney for the Northern District of California.

On September 15, 1931, the United States attorney filed in the District Court of the United States for the district aforesaid a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 15 barrels of raspberry puree, remaining in the original unbroken packages at San Francisco, Calif., alleging that the article had been shipped on or about July 18, 1931, from Tacoma, Wash., consigned by the R. D. Bodle Co., and had been transported in interstate commerce from the State of Washington into the State of California, and charging adulteration in violation of the food and drugs act. The article was labeled in part: "Raspberry Puree."

It was alleged in the libel that the article was adulterated in that it consisted in part of a decomposed vegetable substance.

On December 4, 1931, no claimant having appeared, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.

19095. Adulteration of dried figs. U. S. v. 593 Boxes of Dried Figs. Consent decree of condemnation and forfeiture. Product released under bond for salvage; subsequently destroyed. (F. & D. No. 27089. I. S. No. 29289. S. No. 5332.)

Samples of dried figs from the shipment herein described having been found to be moldy, sour, and insect-infested, the Secretary of Agriculture reported the matter to the United States attorney for the Southern District of New York.

On October 16, 1931, the United States attorney filed in the District Court of the United States for the district aforesaid a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 593 boxes of dried figs at New York, N. Y., alleging that the article had been shipped by George Zaninovich, from Orange Cove, Calif., on or about September 30, 1931, and had been transported from the State of California into the State of New York, and charging adulteration in violation of the food and drugs act.

Adulteration of the article was alleged in the libel for the reason that it consisted in part of a filthy, decomposed, and putrid vegetable substance.

On December 17, 1931, George Zaninovich, Orange Cove, Calif., claimant, having admitted the allegations of the libel and having consented to the entry of a decree, judgment of condemnation and forfeiture was entered. The decree provided that the product might be released to the claimant upon payment of costs and the execution of a bond in the sum of $2,500, conditioned in part that the good portion be separated from the bad portion, and that the rejections, or the entire lot in the event the separation had not been accomplished to the satisfaction of this department, be destroyed or denatured. The results of the attempted salvaging having been unsatisfactory, the product was destroyed.
