

"Nutri-Jel" or "Confecto-Jel." Most of the shipments were also labeled, "From Speas Mfg. Company, Kansas City, Missouri."

It was alleged in the libel that the article was adulterated in that it contained added poisonous and deleterious ingredients, namely, arsenic or lead, or both arsenic and lead, which ingredients might have rendered the article harmful to health.

No claim or answer was filed in any of the cases. Between April 25 and September 12, 1933, judgments of condemnation and forfeiture were entered in the various districts, and the product was ordered destroyed by the United States marshal.

M. L. WILSON, Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

21274. Adulteration and misbranding of canned tomatoes. U. S. v. 10 Cases, et al., of Canned Tomatoes. Default decrees of condemnation, forfeiture, and destruction. (F. & D. nos. 30613, 30614, 30615, 30617, 30622, 30644, 30645, 30646, 30647. Sample nos. 39854-A, 39855-A.)

These cases involved several lots of canned tomatoes, samples of which were found to contain flies, maggots, and worms. A portion of the product had been made from tomatoes which contained excessive blemishes but was not labeled to indicate that it was substandard.

On June 16 and June 20, 1933, the United States attorney for the Middle District of North Carolina, acting upon reports by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the district court libels praying seizure and condemnation of 24 cases and 48 cans of tomatoes in various lots at Cordova, Rockingham, and Hamlet, N.C. On June 22, 1933, the United States attorney for the Western District of North Carolina filed a libel against 26 cases of canned tomatoes at Morganton, N.C. It was alleged in the libels that the article had been shipped in interstate commerce on or about November 20 and 21, 1932, by the Southgate Brokerage Co., from Norfolk, Va., and that it was adulterated and a portion was also misbranded in violation of the Food and Drugs Act. The article was labeled in part: (Can) "Martin Brand Hand Packed Tomatoes * * * Packed by Churchland Canning Corp., Churchland, Va."

The libels charged that the article was adulterated in that it consisted in whole or in part of a filthy vegetable substance.

Misbranding of a portion of the article was alleged for the reason that it fell below the standard of quality and condition promulgated by the Secretary of Agriculture for such canned food, because of the presence of excessive blemishes, and its package or label did not bear a plain and conspicuous statement prescribed by regulation of this Department indicating that it fell below such standard.

On July 11 and July 15, 1933, no claimant having appeared for the property, judgments of condemnation and forfeiture were entered, and it was ordered by the court that the product be destroyed by the United States marshal.

These cases involved various shipments of red currants which bore lead or arsenic, or both lead and arsenic, in amounts which might have rendered them injurious to health.

On July 11, 1933, the United States attorney for the District of Massachusetts, acting upon a report by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the district court a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 1,510 baskets of currants at Boston, Mass. It was alleged in the libels that the article had been shipped in interstate commerce between the dates of June 30 and July 8, 1933, by the Hudson River Fruit Exchange, Inc., from Marlboro, N.Y., and that it was adulterated in violation of the Food and Drugs Act. Certain lots were labeled in part: "Nicholas Mertes, Marlboro, N.Y.," "Chas. Young, Marlboro, N.Y.," "F. G. Morrow & Son, Marlboro, N.Y.," "Neil Twomey, Marlboro, N.Y.," "Frank Colletto, Marlboro, N.Y.," "Mrs. Noel Armstrong * * * Newburgh, N.Y." "W. R. Fowler & Son, Marlboro, N.Y."
