

that the article had been shipped in interstate commerce on or about August 30, 1939, by Kelley-Clarke Co. from Seattle, Wash.; and charging that it was misbranded. The article was labeled in part: "Red-D Brand * * * Packed For Rival Foods, Inc. Cambridge, Mass."

Misbranding was alleged in that the statement on the label, "Red-D Brand Natural Red Color and Oil Salmon," was false and misleading because of the great prominence given to the words "Red" and "Salmon," and in that, because of the use of the term "Natural Red Color and Oil," the labeling implied that the article was red salmon; whereas it was in fact coho salmon.

On March 21, 1940, Rival Foods, Inc., Cambridge, Mass., claimant, having admitted the allegations of the libel, judgment of condemnation was entered, and the product was ordered released under bond conditioned that the labels be obliterated or destroyed and that new labels describing the true nature of the product be affixed to the cans.
