Dear Libby,

Lois joins me in conveying our heart felt feelings of sorrow and loss on learning of Chris' death. Although it has been a long time since we last saw each other, Chris was always very much in our thoughts. I feel that it has been a great loss that I did keep more in contact.

As you must know, Chris played a major role in the lives of many young scientists, and I was certainly no exception. I can truthfully say that whatever I have been able to accomplish is attributable to a great extent to Chris' influence and example. Never one to preach or even attempt to instruct, Chris taught by example - an example is always before me. His love for science, for individual initiative, for people, for Israel, for personal integrity - all of these are the legacy that he gave in life and that he leaves behind in death. For me, being his friend, colleague, and student, are great treasures.

Fondly,

Charles Epstein
