November 28, 1945

Having a few hours with no urgent claims on them I am venturing to set down a list of possible topics for consideration by the committee. I gathered from the discussion yesterday afternoon that menbers felt that the best contribution the three institutions -- California Institute of Technology, Mount Wilson Observatory, and the Buntington Library--could make to the present problem of international affairs would be (a) a conference of well-known experts drawn from outside as well as inside the institutions; (b) a volume of essays on subjects related by their bearing on international affairs today; (c) a series of lectures or informal talks primarily for members of the institutions. In all three, the treatment should be practical not abstruce or antiquerien. The aim throughout would be to instruct the intelligent layman on the present situation, to explain how it care about and to suggest the way out. To adapt Bernard Shaw, we want an intelligent layman's guide so international affairs that will be at once comprehensive and comprehensable. Few people realize how many strands make up the pattern of foreign policy, how many interests which may conflict or be allied there are. urging a government to adopt this or that design. To make INO succeasful nations have to be convinced that their common interests are greater than their rivalries. Peace like war has to be organized. Mere passivity or pious sentiments will not suffice. Fear of the consequences of war will not be a permanent deterrent--unless the lessons of history are all wrong. Comething positive must be substituted. Feace may be no more then armed peace -- a purely megative thing meaning no more than there is no war actually in progress. To last, peace must be active and involves co-operation to secure benefits that nations will not lightly hazard by aggression.

The conference, lectures, essays should all be directed towards a definite program for peace and should go on to indicate how that program can and should be carried out, with emphasis on the immediate steps to be taken. To plan a Utopia for 2,000 A.D. will help little if at all during the next crucial years. The time is so short.

The following is a list of pensible topics:

- I. Introductory:
  - (a) International Relations, their machinery and nature (political, cultural, economic) (Traciala Boursan) Carl Source
  - (b) Geographical factors in International Affairs
  - (c) hational philosophies or idealogies in relation to way
- II. Political:
  - (d) Traditionalism--Monros Doctrine and isolation for United States, balance of power for Europe
  - (e) Nationalism -- economic nationalism could be treated here UND + possible changes. separately
  - (f) Imperialism--backward peoples could be treated here or separately

III. Economic

- (g) General world trends
- (h) International exchange
  - (1) Currency
  - (2) Tariffs, etc.

(IV) Educations

- (1) General -- new organization set up in London
- (j) Science -- many topics, agriculture, industry, nutrition, medicine, armaments. These could also be treated under other headings.

Carelinlight.

(k) Literary relationships, from the angle of spreading knowledge of other peoples

- (1) The Press
- (mi) Radio
- (n) Propaganda--either separately or under (1) and (m).
- (IV) Morality and helicion
  - (o) General--common ideals, recessory efforts, etc.
  - (p) Humanitarianism
  - (q) Co-operations against social ovils, slavery, white slavery, drugs, etc.

missinan

(r) Bill of Rights for all Pepples.