

October 31, 1962

Dr. Francis H. C. Crick
Medical Research Council Unit
for Molecular Biology
Cavendish Laboratory
University of Cambridge
Cambridge, England

Dear Francis:

Continuously over the past ten years you have awarded all of us, personally, the greatest prize of all--constant stimulation for our own experiments and thoughts. So it seems a fine thing that a grand award be made to you in return. May I add my own congratulations to those of the world upon your receiving the Nobel Prize? With very best wishes and a great indebtedness, I am,

Most sincerely yours,

Maxine Singer

MS:peg