Detached retinas and the methods
Dear Alex

I do hope Nancy will be recovering promptly and uneventfully.

With little success, I have tried to get a few ophthalmologists interested in looking at this problem as one of the molecular biology of the cement rather than repair of the trauma.

In another vein, you can see I am trying to condense the T+GG Committee's non-philanthropic business.

More seriously, I would be interested in your views on the social utility of a fresh look at doctrine of incube re-location. My concern is that, in practice, all the wrong things would be done.

P.S. - My own disk problem is doing very well now.

Yours
Alex
