Dear Dr. Sharfman:

My files are still far from being in perfect order following their transfer from Stanford University but I did take a quick look for a couple of items that might be of interest in connection with our conversation concerning the OTA study on Effects of Nuclear War.

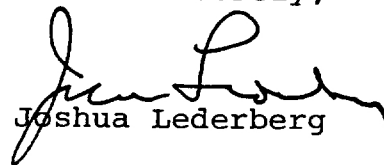

The NRC Bulletin refers to just one of a number of studies of the 1964 earthquake and I believe that at least one of them had a good bit to say on issues of social behavior.

I also notice that there is a reasonably new journal called "Mass Emergencies" and I would suspect that among its editors and authors you might find some potential contributors that would be easy to overlook otherwise.

Finally, I think it would be to some profit to do a citation index, especially in the social science citation index, on Ikle's book, to locate contemporary workers on similar themes.

If anything else comes to mind, you will hear from me.

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
