

Dear Dave -

MAY 8 1969

I don't think the Times magazine will be happy about another multi-taking job like Fleming did in the Atlantic. What you did write was an excellent synthesis; and what Leites now asks would amount to putting words into my mouth.

So, I suggest either of two courses: your own broad survey of new biology placing no special emphasis on me; or, drop the Times magazine altogether and recast the piece for a more serious magazine like Fortune, or Horizon or perhaps even the New Yorker ^{or S/R.}

If I can be of any help for either route, please let me know.

Meanwhile, my deepest appreciation for your consideration and integrity.

Jalil

Redman