P.S. Other aldehydes: $\text{C}_2\text{H}_5\text{CHO}$

It occurs to me that it would be most illuminating to have similar data on acetaldehyde - even more than formaldehyde a natural intermediate - for perspective on how close to zero exposures one should strive.

I chide myself for never having tested AcEt myself in 1957, though it was on my mind. Nor have I located any data on muta- or carcino-genicity. It would of course be particularly germane to the assessment of ethanol as well as of formaldehyde.
