Dear Bill:

This is just to confirm an opportunity for a date here the afternoon of May 10th.

If you have the time, we are planning to hold a lunch for a number of people who might be interested in the University (and perhaps know rather less about it than you do). At those lunches we generally have a couple of our professors talk about some elements of their work and I suspect you would find that engagement pleasant and informative. I would be delighted indeed if you could include this in the repertoire of your visit.

However, there were also a number of matters that I wanted to take up with you quite privately; and for that the relevant time would start at around 2:00 p.m. So please let me know if you can be with us for lunch that day; but more importantly if there is an hour, between 2:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m., that we might get together here. You are probably pressed, while traveling; so if you would like me to hop a cab to a point of your own convenience, please just give me the nod.

My main agenda is what we can all contrive to do better along the lines of the Industry: University interface, to which I alluded in my talk. Your extraordinary range of experience on both sides of that fence is what I would like to tap for counsel and wisdom, as much as any specific action that you might be in a personal position to facilitate.

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
