Dear Josh:

A belated thanks for your response to my question about birth defects.

As you pointed out, it's a tricky question with no clear answer.

I appreciated the unpublished piece on "Right to Life." I loved the sentence: "In fact, it may be necessary to place an immediate moratorium on research on the health of embryos, for fear that we might learn how to let them live."

You make so much sense. I wish you'd write and publish more and attend more parties where I'm invited.

Warm regards,
