

Memo from

JOSHUA LEDERBERG

To: Dr. Russell Lee^{M.A.}
Palo Alto Medical Clinic

FEB 9 1976

It was a treat to have such a good chat with you the other night. I have given some thought to "sick societies", and the model of some resonances between individual psychopathologies, and defects in power and communication structures of the social group; but I could not find anything noteworthy in my own writings.

A propos psychology in history, you may want to see the Winter 1971 issue of Daedalus for a critical perspective. and you may be edified by Peter Burke (on Lucien Febvre), "A new kind of history."

Yours,
PROFESSOR JOSHUA LEDERBERG
Department of Genetics
School of Medicine
Stanford University
Stanford, California 94305

2/3)