

Personal Memo from
JOSHUA LEDERBERG

Prof. J. Goldstein
USC

JUN - 1 1987

new geneticism,

Dear Jot -

It was good to hear from you.

I tend to agree with Horan's admonition, but don't always follow my own precepts - see enclosure. Your piece is a useful counter-polemical; but along with its target does perhaps belong more in editorials than "scientific" journals.

You will also see that I was and am in large agreement with you - except that altruism may be the ghost in the machine. How does one verify propositions like that?

Have you read Shmookler? (whom I find superficial); Lewis? (superior on the political fallout of human psychology.)

Yours,

5/22

THE ROCKEFELLER UNIVERSITY NEW YORK 10021

cc: Horan Goldstein - see