I'm sorry I've been in the midst of preparing for a major site visit today and could not turn away to respond to your request for a piece of my talk Wednesday.

My remarks will follow the lines indicated ~~to~~, in the report attached, but will also enlarge on the interplay of basic research and social policy, areas like pesticides and other environmental hazards; drug safety; nuclear energy; biological warfare - intl. controls; abortion; malnutrition and early critical periods; genetic disease and prevention; limits of biological expectations for man. I will leave to Anderson and Thomas the development of specific therapeutic and diagnostic aids.
