

343 Lexington Road

Richmond, Virginia 23226

July 29, 1966

Dr. Joshua Lederberg,
School of Medicine
Stanford University
Stanford, California

Dear Dr. Lederberg,

I was fortunate to have been in Washington, D.C. last Sunday and to have read your article in The Washington Post, "The 'Heart Gap' Will Cause Soul-Ache."

Your question, "Should we not have begun yesterday to start thinking of human biology as one of the main sectors of political responsibility?", is one of the most original and thought-provoking questions I have seen in years.

Do you have any specific proposals along these lines? What could an educated layman do? Many years ago I was a teacher of Biology in a high school.

Very sincerely yours,

Ethel W. Silver

(Mrs Samuel L. Silver)