Dear Josh:

Re acriflavine reactions -- I just ran across a recent German paper that may be of interest. It also contains some of the more obscure literature references. The paper is by:

Wagner, W. and Bredehorst, H. Untersuchungen
über Farbstoffagglutination und elektrophoretisches
Verhalten von Ruhr bakterien. Zbl. P. Bakter., Abt. I Orig., 159: 323-330. 1953.

Since I am still hoping that I'll get to Madison on the evening of December 3, I would appreciate it if you could make a (tentative) reservation for me at the Student Union for the nights of the 3rd and 4th.

As always,

Sincerely,

WERNER BRAUN
