-- Just to say how very much I enjoyed that issue. Your portrait of Lindemann was wonderful!

Dramatization on Haldane recalled some exciting times -- including my visit to him in Calcutta Nov. 1957 (cf. memoirs.)

Hodde's "method" should not be so scorned -- he was a step away from a computer-based system (2nd fold) which may be useful as a -o the proper choice of scanning variable.

I congratulate you for many very interesting issues.

Permit me to send some memoirs that match thoughts evoked by this reading.

P.S.

I.G. Farben / Frankfurt

I'm just back from a brief trip to Hoechst A.G. (which has just acquired Celanese Corp, for which I consulted.)

One of my competitors remarked that the German chemical industry was not targeted during WW-2 when it would have been an easy shot. So I.G. Farben was uncaptured.

Can you point me to any facts on the matter?
