

June 16, 1953

My dear Hayes:

I just received your note, and am pleased at its import. We shall be looking forward to seeing you in September. I expect to be occupied at moving to a new house on September 1, and so would prefer if you could manage to get here after the second. The following week there is to be a meeting on campus of a very large group of biological societies (American Institute of Biological Sciences) which you may or may not wish to avoid.

A reprint of our lysogenicity paper should be waiting for you at London.

Till then,

Sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg