Dear Dr. Hollaender:

There will certainly be a very heavy demand for access to the recent Symposium publication on Genetic Recombination during the next few years among my students— both my own laboratory colleagues, and registrants in our courses. I realize this is an inordinate request, but if your supplies would permit, we could make excellent use of as many as four additional copies.

I have had many requests for reprints of my own article which doubtless will be duplicated by your own distribution of the entire volume. Would you let me know, in general, how this is being distributed— e.g., are you sending it to every researcher or teacher who asks for it? If so, is that advertised?

With best regards,

Yours sincerely
