Dear Josh -

The typewriter ribbon needs replacing, but if you will forgive my hasty writing, I would like to transmit to you a typed copy of the manuscript for the Detroit Symposium. There has ^{been} some discussion whether you might want to reduce or rearrange some of your discussion re. my paper if you saw the final form (representing what I wish I was man enough to have poured out at the meeting) - It follows my original outline but there just wasn't time, and my memory of that talk is a blurry one of trying to read badly scribbled notes and trying to eliminate sections without making too many non-sequiturs or gaps. The written paper comes out better, I think, though you will of course see that it too only goes a small way toward answering the questions tackled.

Hope the New Year finds everything well with you and Esther. Best regards

Sincerely
Rollin

This MS was only available about Christmas time, I think it was - otherwise I'd have sent it before for your consultation on ~~revising~~ editing your discussion notes. It seemed too late then. RDA
