Dear Professor Lederberg,

I must first make due apology for the the rather ungracious, and ungrateful, remarks which I made in my last letter to you. Although the letter was written at a time when I had received a further set-back, that provides no excuse whatsoever for the comments I then made. I hope that you will accept this as an expression of my regret.

This week I received my Visa, there was little difficulty other than waiting for the necessary appointment. The designation as an Exchange Visitor does, indeed, make everything very simple.

I wish that other matters were as easy. From this you may gather that further hitches are taking place. This time they are wholly British inspired. I am having a little difficulty at present with the Bank of England in trying to arrange for the transfer of some of my Sterling assets to the U.S. I think that they will agree but time is running rather short. It rather holds up other necessary arrangements which I still have to make.

There is one point on which I still require your guidance. I hope on arrival in Madison to have some $70, being the first instalment of my remittance from England, awaiting me in a local bank. As I understand it, however, I shall need more than this to pay the necessary registration fees. Is that in fact correct, and if so can you suggest any means by which this difficulty may be overcome? I shall also, of course require money on which to live and pay rent until I receive my first pay-cheque and the next monthly transfer from here.

I shall be leaving Manchester to return to my home at the beginning of July. This to give me the necessary time to make final arrangements prior to sailing. Would you please, therefore, address any letter likely to arrive after 5th. July to my home address }

I hope to let you know in due course of my travel arrangements.

Yours sincerely,
