Dear Professor Dobzhansky:

Doctor Lederberg and I are so pleased that you have accepted President J. E. Wallace Sterling's invitation to deliver the Lane Course of Medical Lectures here in the week of October 11-15, 1965.

Reviewing the correspondence, I am embarrassed to note that no one has informed you that it has been customary for Stanford Press to publish the Lane Lectures (a copy of the Lectures by Dr. James L. Gamble is being sent you under separate cover), although we did remember to request a subtitle for each address. Please forgive this oversight.

Most sincerely yours,

David A. Ryland, M.D.
Bloomfield Professor of Medicine
