Dear Graham,

Thank you again for your book and for your generous remarks, (which I can readily and honestly reciprocate).

Your remarks on pp 141-2 have opened my eyes to what really happened to motivate the Soviet's Cuban gambit. This case is readily proven by the Sardonivich papers which have just been "unearthed".

A propos a "substitute for a Cuban base", this issue evidently was a thorny one at SALT (ref. Murphy's piece, enclosed. I haven't checked his numbers).

Sincerely yours,

Joshua Lederberg
