AN HISTORIAL EXPO-

STVLATION: AGAINST THE

beastlye abusers, lothe of Chyrurgerie, and Physike, in oure tyme: with a goodlye doctrine, and instruction, necessarye to be marked, and folowed, of all true chyrurgiens:

gathered by John Halle Chyrurgien.

Or as muche as in the Epistle and Prefaces, I haue declared the dishonoz that the noble arte of medicyne suffereth, by deceaynge Fugitiues, and other false abusers: I thinke it good here to blasen the dedes of some, in this our tyme, that it maye apere, that not withoute a sufficiente cause, I haue so there of them complayned.

First there came into the towne of Naydstone, In the yere of our Lorde. 1555. a woman whiche named hir selfe Jone, hauyng with hir a walkyng mate, whome she called her husbnde. This wicked beast toke hir Jone at the sygne of the Bell, in the towne aforesayde. Where she caused within short space to be published, that she could heale all maner, bothe inward and outward diseases. One powder she caried in a blader, made of the herbe Daphnoydes, and Anise sede together, whiche shee (as an onely sufficient remedie for all grefes) administrad vnto all hir folishe patientes, in lyke quantite to all people, neyther regarding tyme, strengthe, nor age. At the tyme of her being there, (whiche was about. iij. wekes) there resorted to her company, diuers Russians, and vacaboundes, vnder pretence of being diseased, & sekynge to her for remedye: so that

An excellent Treatise of Wounds made with Gunshot, in which is confuted both the grose errour of Hierome Brunfwicke, John Vigo, Al-fonce Ferrius, and others, in that they make the wound venimous which cometh through the common powder & shot. And also there is set out a perfect and true methode of curing these Woundes. Betwixt compiled and published by Thomas Gale, Maister in Chirurgie.

Microcosmos (whom Man we call)
of two right noble parts is made:
The Soule, whose life is eternall,
and bodie eke which hence must vade.

This last part, doth the first containe,
so long as it in health indure:
Vntill sicknesse and all her traine,
doth proclaime warre, and death procure.

Now sicknesse quite for to expell,
Apollo hath the arte out set:
What arte? loe Maister Gale doth tell, whereby sicknesse force we may let.

The Canon shot (dreadfull and fell like thunder bolts and fire flame)
How to remoue the waie, he tell in this Treatise of worthie fame.

His name of right, Gale we may call,
for Gala, Milke doth signifie:
And as milke nourish aboue all,
so doth this Gale right perfectly.

CERTIFICATES, &c.

GEN. TYLER, AND MR. LORD.

I JOHN TYLER, of Preston, in the county of New-London and State of Connecticut, hereby certify, that on or about the 17th day of June last, I was confined by a Wound, which I had before that time received, by cutting my right leg transversely, in which I had taken cold; and at that time the fore was in a high state of inflammation, and gave me great pain, to such a degree that I had been obliged to keep my leg in a horizontal position, in a chair, the most of that day,—when Doct. Elisha Perkins, of Plainfield, called on me, and having operated on me a few minutes with his patent metallic instruments, the pain in my leg wholly ceased, and the redness and inflammation of the wound entirely disappeared. I was free from pain that night, and indeed the pain and inflammation both ceased from that operation, and never returned again.

And I further certify, that my wife at that time was sorely afflicted with rheumatic pains in her hip, which had been upon her a number of years, and had affected her to such a degree as to render that side shorter than the other, and to make her unable at that time to raise herself from her chair without the greatest difficulty, or to walk across the room without leaning on her staff, and with that support, not without the greatest inconvenience; and Doct. Perkins operated upon her a few minutes, when she declared herself free from pain, and immediately rose from her chair, without any assistance or apparent difficulty, and walked several times across the room without her

ART. I.—Traumatic Tetanus. By Prof. JOS. JONES, Surg.
P. A. C. S.

[In selecting for publication in this number the following extracts from a carefully and elaborately prepared paper now on file in the office of the Surgeon-General of the Confederate States, concerning the nature, history, pathology and treatment of traumatic tetanus, it is due to the author, Surg. Jos. Jones, P. A. C. S., to say that we hope to publish the entire article at some future day; in the meantime, our readers must be content with only such portions as we think have a practical bearing on the treatment of this interesting, but usually fatal malady.—Ed.]

History of the case; Symptoms, &c.

Confederate General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., July, 1862.
Gillstrap, a Confederate soldier; age 37; dark complexion; dark hair and eyes; weight 145 pounds; height five feet six inches; athletic and strong in health; muscles well developed; has been in the service of his country six months; previous to this time his occupation was farming.

At the battle of Secessionville, on James' Island, S. C., June 16th, 1862, whilst standing in a small house, and in the act of taking a cartridge from the box, a Minnie ball passed through a plank in the side of the house, three inches in thickness, and entering the lower part of the anterior fleshy portion of the right fore-arm, passed through the extensor and flexor muscles between the ulna and radius, splintering both bones, without, however, fracturing them across.

The wound suppurated freely, and appeared to be doing well, until July 6th, when the suppuration was sensibly diminished, and the patient complained of spasmodic twitchings and painful sensations in the muscles of the wounded arm and corresponding side, and along the spine, especially between the shoulders and in the region of the cervical and brachial plexus; stiffness and uneasiness about the muscles of the jaws, and painful sense and tightness about the ossiform cartilage; torpor of the bowels, and loss of rest at night. The spasmodic contractions and twitchings of the muscles of the wounded arm were excited and increased by the slightest movements, and were especially aggravated by coughing, which was not only attended with great pain, but also with spasmodic contractions of the muscles of the thorax and neck. For several days previous the bowels have been constipated; and in like manner with this characteristic symptom, the
