OF THE ECLIPSES FOR THE YEAR 1781.

O N L Y two Eclipses this Year ; and they are both of the Sun.

The first will be on the 23d day of May, about noon ; and tho' it will be scarcely visible to us, yet in some parts of the West Indies it will be central ; and as the Semi-diameter of the Moon (being near her Apoge) will be something less than that of the Sun, it will be Annular ; that is, the whole body of the Moon will be comprehended within the compass of the Sun, and a bright shining circle will appear about the Moon, in the appearance of a gold ring. This Eclipse will happen in the fourth degree of Taurus.

The second will be on the 17th day of October, about half past four in the morning, a very great Eclipse, total in some parts of the world, tho' invisible to us. It will happen in the 25th Degree of the Celestial Balance.

TO THE UNMARRIED LADIES,
CHOOSE him who bears an honest Mind,
If he has common Sense,
And is to moral good inclin'd,
With common Faults dispense.

By Friends are often wron<sup>g</sup> conjectures made,
But your own reason best your cause will plead.
Forbear t'insist upon you must,

A jointer very great,
For whom you with your Person trust,
Trust him with your Estate.

If Fortune frowns—thence comes the bone of Strife,
Betrays distrust—and parts the Man and Wife.

A method to mark LINNEN, so as not to wash out again.

TAKE Vermillion as much as will lay on a Half Crown Piece ; of the salt of Steel, a piece about the size of a small Nutmeg ; grind or levigate them well together with Linseed Oil :—You may make it thick or thin, at discretion.

AN INSTANCE OF TRUE MAGNANIMITY.

WHEN Vespasian commanded a Senator to give his voice against the interest of his country, and threatened him with immediate death if he spoke on the other side, the Roman, conscious that the attempt to serve a people was in his power, tho' the event was ever so uncertain, answer'd with a smile,—“ did I ever tell you that I was immortal ? — My virtue is in my own disposal, my life in yours ; do what you will, I shall do what I ought ; and if I fall in the service of my country, I shall have more triumph in my death, than you in all your laurels.”

A surprising discovery of a Murder, by the deceased's Hand bleeding fresh some years after the Murder had been committed.

M R. BEARD gives an account in his Theatre, of a man who bore his neighbour a bitter inveteracy ; and having met him in a wood, at a place convenient for revenge, murder'd him, and escaped without being suspected. — The body was found soon after, and brought before the Senate ; and the murderer not being heard of, they ordered one of the dead man's hands to be cut off, and hung up over a table in the common goal of the town.

Some years after, the villain who perpetrated this bloody deed, was arrested and committed to the said prison, and brought into the very room where the hand hung ; and by accident, as he sat at his dinner, was just under it, and notwithstanding it was quite withered, yet it did now bleed afresh, and the blood dropped into the criminal's trencher ; at which all present being greatly amazed, the gaoler went and informed the Senate of it, who sent for the prisoner, and examined him ; he was greatly startled by that divine prodigy ; acknowledged himself to be guilty of the said murder, for which he was afterwards broke on the wheel.

A CURE FOR THE ITCH.

P UT a small teaspoonful of spirits of turpentine into the hollow palm of your hand, and rub it between your hands till it is quite dry, three days successively. This is said to cure the slightest, as well as the most inveterate itch, without the least uneasiness or inconvenience to the patient.

ON PRUDENCE.

HEAR the words of Prudence, give heed unto her counsels, and store them in thine heart : Her maxims are universal, and all the virtues lean upon her ; she is the guide and the mistress of human life.

Put a bridle on thy tongue, set a guard before thy lips ; lest the words of thine own mouth destroy thy peace. Let him that scoffeth at the lame, take care that he hal not himself : Whosoever speaketh of anothers failings with pleasure, shall hear his own with bitterness of heart.

Of much speaking cometh repentance, but in silence there is safety.

A talkative man is a nuisance to society, the ear is sick of his babbling, the torrent of his words overwhelmeth conversation.—Boast not of thyself, for it shall bring contempt upon thee : Neither deride another, for it is dangerous.

SELECT APHORISMS.

DOCTOR DONNE, a person of great parts and learning, being upon his death bed, and taking his solemn farewell of his friends, left this with them ; " I repent of all my life, but that part of it I spent in communion with God, and doing good."

Sir PHILIP SIDNEY left this his last farewell among his acquaintance ; " love my memory, cherish my friends ; but above all, govern your will and affections by the will and word of your Creator ; in me behold the end of this world and all its vanities."

Sir THOMAS SMITH, Secretary of State to Queen ELIZABETH, a quarter of a year before he died, sent to his friends the Bishops of Winchester and Worcester, intreating them to draw him out of the world of God, the plainest and exactest way of making his peace with him ; adding, that it was a great pity men knew not to what end they were born into this world, 'till they were ready to go out of it.

FIGHTING AT SEA.

THE ships wide caves collected vengeance bear,
 Turgid with death and prominent with war,
 At the first shock with blood and powder stain'd,
 Nor Heaven, nor sea their former face retain'd.
 Fury and art produce effects so strange,
 They trouble nature, and her visage change. Night

II. FEBRUARY hath 29 Days. 1781.

Night, norre, daughter, with confusion meets,
And in their sable arms embrace the fleets.
Thro' yielding planks the angry bullets fly,
And of one wond hundreds together die :
Born under diff'rent stars, one fate they have,
The ship their coffin, and the sea their grave.

ON COURAGE.

THE greatest proof of courage we can give,
Is then to die when we have power to live.
But when true courage is of force bereft,
Patience, the only fortitude, is left.
On valour's side the odds of combat lye;
The brave live glorious, or lamented die. How

How are we bandy'd up and down by fate,
By so much more unhappy as we're great !
Greatness, thou gaudy torment of our souls,
The wise man's bitter, and the rage of fools.

Greatness, most envy'd when least understood,
Than art no real, but a seeming good. Gold

When things go ill, each Fool presumes to advise,
And if more happy, thinks himself more wise :
All wretchedly deplore the present State,
And that Advice seems best which comes too late.

Take sound Advice, proceeding from a Heart
Sincerely yours, and free from fraudulent Art. Events

VIII. AUGUST hath 31 Days. 1781.

Events are doubtful which on Battles wait;
But where's the Doubt to Souls secure of Fate?

How hard 'tis for the prosperous to see
That Fate, which waits on Pow'r and Victory!

Fates dark recesses we can never find,
But Fortune at some Hours, to all is kind.

How happy is the harleets country Maid
 Who rich by Nature; scorns superfluous aid !
 Whose modest Cloths no wanton Eyes invite,
 But, like her Soul, preserve the native white ;
 Whose little Store her well taught Mind does please ;
 Not pinch'd with Want, nor cloy'd with wanton Ease.

Who, free from Storms which on the great ones fall,
 Makes but few Wishes, and enjoys them all.
 No Care, but Love, can discompose her Breast,
 Love, of all Cares, the sweetest and the best;
 While on sweet Grass her blesting Charge does lie,
 One happy Lover feasts upon her Eye:
 Not one whom on her God or Man impose,
 But one whom Love has for this Lover chose.

Under some fav'rite Myrtle's shady Booughs,
 They speak their passions with repeated Vows :
 And whilst a Blush confesses how she burns,
 His faithful Heart makes as sincere Returns.
 Thus in the Arms of Love and Peace they lie ;
 And, whilst they live, their Flames can never die.

Health in Eating and Drinking.

old and decrepid Persons ought to eat often, and at little at a time ; because weak and wasted bodies are to be restored by little and little ; and by moist and liquid food rather than by solid ; because moist and liquid diet nourishes the soonest, and is more easy of digestion.—

Keep constantly to a plain diet : Those enjoy most Health, and live longest, who avoid curiosity and variety of Meats and Drinks, which only serve to intice to gluttony.

The less food a sick Person eats, the sooner he will recover ; for it is a true saying, The more you fill your bodies, the more you hurt them.

Coffee and Tea, as they are prejudicial to weak Lungs, and to those who are subject to weak Nerves, ought always to be used sparingly.

All men in health find by experience, that in the morning, before they have eaten, they are light and pleasantly easy in their bodies ; but after they have indulged their appetites with plenty of food, they find themselves heavy and dull, and often sleepy : which sufficiently shews, that those full meals are prejudicial to the welfare of the Body.

The unhealthy are found among those who feed high upon the most delicious dainties, and drink nothing but the strongest and most spirituous Liquors ; whereas others, who want this delicate fare, are seldom sick, unless they have such unsatiable appetites as to eat too much.

To sup sparingly is most healthful, because of the experience of an infinite number of persons, who have received the greatest benefit from light suppers. The Stomach being not over burdened, the sleep is more pleasant. From sparing suppers, the breeding of those humours is prevented, which causes delusions, rheumatism, gouts, drop-sies, giddiness, and corruption of the mouth from the scurvy. Many indispositions are cured by fasting and a spare diet.

Two meals a day is said to be sufficient for all weak people ; and the omitting of supper, unless taken some hours before bed-time, conduces much to the health of the weak and aged. Misers, who eat and drink but little, always live long.

THIS is a good World which we live in,

To work, and to spend, and to give in ;

But to beg, and to borrow, and get a man's own,

This is the worst World that ever was known.

The Portion of a just Lawyer.

WHILST he lives he is the delight of the Court—
Ornament of the Bar—A Pattern of Innocency—
The glory of his profession—A terror to deceit—The oracle of his country; and when Death calls him to the Bar of Heaven, by the De habenda corpus cum causa, he finds the Judge his advocate, non-suits the Devil, and continues one of the long Robe in glory.

An Anecdote against mispending Time.

SHOULD the greatest part of people sit down and draw up a particular account of their time, what a shameful bill it would be! So much spent for extraordinary eating, drinking and sleeping, beyond what nature requires; so much spent in reveling and wantonness; so much for the recovery of last night's intemperance; so much in gaming and plays; so much in paying and receiving formal and impertinent visits in idle and foolish prating, in censuring and reviling our neighbours; so much in dressing our bodies, and talking of fashions; and so much wasted and lost in doing nothing. Take away all these items, and how little a portion will be left for the discharge of our duty towards God, and the necessary businesses of life!

An infallible Method to preserve our Health, to secure and improve our Estates, to quiet our Minds, and to advance our Esteem and Reputation.

AS the practice of all piety and virtue is agreeable to our reason, so it is likewise for the interest of mankind, both of private persons and public societies. Some virtues plainly tend to the preservation of our Health, others to the security and improvement of our Estates, all to the peace and quiet of our Minds, and which is somewhat more strange, to the advancement of our Esteem and Reputation. For tho' the World be generally bad, and men are apt to approve nothing so much as what they do themselves, yet I know not how it comes to pass, men are commonly so just to virtue and goodness, as to praise it in others, even when they do not practise it themselves.

On Futurity.

DISTRUST and darkness of a future state,
Make poor mankind so fearful of their fate.
Death in itself is nothing, but we fear
To be we know not what—we know not where.

A Moral Reflection at the close of last year.

SEVENTEEN hundred and eighty,
Is now forever past;
Seventeen hundred eighty one
Will fly away as fast.
But whether life's uncertain scene
Shall hold an equal pace;
Or whether Death shall come between,
And end our mortal race;
Or whether sickness, pain, or health,
Our future lot shall be;
Or whether poverty, or wealth,
Is all unknown to me.
One thing is known, that needful 'tis
To watch with carefnl eye;
Since every season spent amiss,
Is register'd on high.
Too well we know what precious hours
Our wayward passions waste;
And thus we feel our mortal Pow'rs
To dust and darkness hasten.
Earth rolls her rapid seasons round,
To meet her final fire;
But virtue is with glory crown'd,
Tho' suns and stars expire.
What awful thoughts! what truth sublime!
What useful lesson this!
Then let us well improve our time!
That we may die in peace!
