Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1896, by
ASHBEL R. ELLIOTT,
In the office of the Librarian of Congress at Washington.

INTRODUCTION.

The immense strides which class journalism has made during the past decade have been especially marked in the departments of Medicine, Pharmacy, Dentistry and Hygiene. With over 270 journals devoted to the interest of the classes coming under these heads, and with constant accessions to the number, special advertisers find it increasingly difficult to properly estimate the value of the different mediums. It is with a view to aiding such advertisers in the selection of the most advantageous mediums that this "Hand-Book" has been compiled.

To facilitate reference, the work has been divided into four parts representing, respectively, Medicine, Pharmacy, Dentistry and Hygiene. The medical publications are further subdivided into classes, as Regular, Homeopathic, Eclectic and Independent medical journals.

All statistical matter is arranged in alphabetical order according to the title of the periodical under the part and class to which it belongs—an arrangement which it is hoped will be appreciated by those advertisers who happen to be more familiar with the name of a given periodical than with the location of its publishing office.

A limited number of announcements have been accepted from journals of the highest class. These have been kept separate, however, from the reading matter of the "Hand-Book," and thus do not detract in any way from its convenience as a work of reference.

Useful as the book must prove in its present form, it is impossible to incorporate in a volume of moderate size all the data which must be taken into consideration in determining advertising value for any special preparation, and it is here that the special knowledge and wide experience of the publisher of this "Hand-Book" become of value to his clients.

JUNE 1, 1895.

A. R. ELLIOTT.

The circulation ratings assigned to periodicals quoted in this "Hand-Book" are printed as the statements of the individual publishers and I do not hold myself responsible for their accuracy.

An Important Message.

Advertising—Really good advertising—which gives satisfaction and pays the advertiser only becomes so when practiced intelligently and judiciously.

It requires the labor of skilled operators in many departments ; no mere novice can expend the advertising appropriation of any firm judiciously or command the right forces at the right time. With twenty years' experience, I have mastered the necessary details, and large contracts placed in my hands are executed with economy and satisfaction.

A MONTHLY JOURNAL OF MEDICINE, SURGERY AND THE COLLATERAL SCIENCES

While its circulation is largely among those classed as Liberal Homœopaths, its great reputation as an advocate of the new code and of liberal progressive medicine causes it to be read with a peculiar interest by thousands of the best physicians of every variety of medical opinion.

There are practically no other journals that reach this peculiar, very valuable and important class of physicians so thoroughly.

BENJ. LILLARD, Business Manager, 19 Liberty Street, New York.

Popular Science

NEWS, ARTS, INVENTION, CHEMISTRY, MEDICINE, HYGIENE, HEALTH.

Founded in 1866 by Dr. James R. Nichols as the BOSTON JOURNAL OF CHEMISTRY.

This old and reliable publication, in addition to the many features that have made it so popular for the last thirty years, is to have its usefulness very largely increased by the addition of SIX new and valuable departments and many new writers, accompanied by a large expenditure of energy and money.

IT'S SO!

THE Druggists of America are reached more generally and more cheaply through the American Druggist and Pharmaceutical Record than by any other journal devoted to the drug trade.

WHY?

Because—It circulates more copies than any of its competitors.

Because—It circulates among the LIVE PHARMACISTS of America.

Because—It publishes the best and only reliable market report.

Because—It prints only the very best matter and pays the best price for the best.
