P R E F A C E .

The only excuse I have to offer for compiling this repertory is that the inclination to do so was born of necessity.

During the first three months of my practice I had the misfortune to have three cases of convulsions; and as I had been taught to rely largely upon my repertories, and all of them were almost blank upon this subject, I was compelled to depend upon the concomitants and my limited knowledge of Materia Medica.

I have purposely omitted the lists of remedies said to be indicated by certain pathological names, because I do not believe in such prescribing. If the totality of the symptoms is covered by a certain remedy it will cure no matter whether the name of the malady be catalepsy, eclampsia or epilepsy.

Imperial Granum.

THIS original and world renowned dietetic preparation is a substance of unrivalled purity and medicinal worth, potent for good and powerless to harm. A solid extract, derived by a new process from very superior growths of wheat—nothing more. It is presented with the assurance that it is unquestionably the safest, most nicely prepared, and reliable medicinal food that scientific research can yield.

IMPERIAL GRANUM is the most remarkable food ever brought before the public. It is a solid extract from the best growths of wheat, and is of a highly nutritious character. For invalids, convalescents, nursing mothers, infants (from birth) and for children, also as a nourishing and strengthening food for the aged, it has no equal in the market. It has long been before the public, and is endorsed by most skillful physicians and recommended earnestly by all who have tested it.—Christian Enquirer, August, 1888.

Imperial Granum.

IT IS no more than just to call the attention of our readers to the merits of Imperial Granum, the invaluable food for children and invalids. It is in constant use, not only in the hospital, but in the families of various members of the Cottager Staff, and has shown its superior value many times. One dear invalid in particular, who has great difficulty in assimilating food finds Imperial Granum almost her sole resort among the sources of nourishment. Thousands have been helped back to strength by the support rendered by this easily digested and palatable food.—The Cottager, Massachusetts State Hospital Cottages for Children.

IMPERIAL GRANUM.—If it were not for the fact that so many unreliable and unsafe preparations of food for children and invalids are now on the market, it would not be necessary for us to call the attention of our readers to the merits of Imperial Granum. This food which is sold by druggists everywhere, has been before the public for many years, and it would be possible, probably, to procure recommendations in its favor from every family in which it has been used. Children are kept in health and in thousands of cases invalids have not only been kept alive, but have been restored to perfect health by its use. We are glad to know that the sale increases with every year.—From the New York Independent, July 3, 1890.

Imperial Granum.

PREPARED FOODS.—According to one of the speakers at the recent meeting of the Association for the Advancement of Science, “most of these products are unwholesome.” and the Government was urged to take some action. If the truth was told at Toronto, here is an evil of prodigious proportions, and energetic measures should be taken to make an end of it. The lives of thousands of infants are dependent on various prepared “foods,” and it is of the utmost importance that these articles should be pure, nutritious and wholesome. The purchaser must accept them on faith, unless he can procure an analysis and make certain that the food he buys is what it purports to be. If a slaughter of the innocents is going on day by day, it ought to be not only known, but stopped.—From the New York Tribune, September 6, 1889.
